

Q3 Innovations, LLC Announces Q3 Cares Contest

INDEPENDENCE, Iowa (April 29, 2009) – Q3 Innovations, LLC is pleased to announce the inception of the Q3 Cares Contest. The contest will reward one lucky high school or school district a new AlcoHAWK® PT500 fuel-cell breath alcohol tester. The winning prize is part of the AlcoHAWK® PT Series fuel-cell sensor product line and is often used by law enforcement as a roadside screener.

“Our goal is to share a great technology with educators. We would like to aid in the quest to deter underage drinking and keep our children safe and on the path to success,” said Brian Eddy, CEO. “Parents are often interested in our products to help in the practice of a zero-tolerance atmosphere at home. Extending that practice to cover school activities sends a clear message that underage drinking is dangerous and will not be tolerated,” added Chad Ronnebaum, President.

To nominate a school or district and view full contest rules, please visit www.q3i.com. Entries close June 15, 2009, with a random drawing held June 18, 2009.

About Q3 Innovations, LLC

Q3 Innovations, LLC, co-founded in 1999 by Brian Eddy and Chad Ronnebaum, is a privately-held, Independence, Iowa based manufacturing and distribution company creating innovative products with an emphasis in the personal safety device market. The company's products, which include the popular line of AlcoHAWK® digital breath alcohol screeners, are sold all over the World and can be found in a variety of stores nationwide, such as CVS Pharmacy, Walgreen Drug, Bed Bath & Beyond, K-Mart and Shopko. For more information, visit www.q3i.com.